Average Age of Presidents— Close to 58 When Inaugurated.

Sentiment common to the human race leads to an inquiry like this: "At what age should men be rendered ineligible to the Presidency of the United States?" Since age seems to have very little to do with the ups and downs of human life—and sets no limit to success in the business world—it might be answered that there is no limit to the age of a candidate for the Presidency.

Patrick Henry declared that he knew of no lamp by which to guide his future footsteps than the lamp of experience. So we might refer to the ages of Presidents when they entered that high office with propriety.

Washington was only 57 years old, but he served as President eight years, making him 65 when he retired.

John Adams was 61, but he served but one term, and therefore retired at the same age as Washington.

Both Thomas Jefferson and James Madison entered the White House at 57 and retired at 65, as each served eight years.

James Monroe was 58 but he served eight years, retiring at 66.

The second Adams was 57, but served only one term.

Gen. Jackson was 61 and therefore 69 when he retired, having served eight years.

Van Buren was 54 when elected and 56 when he retired.

The elder Harrison was 68—but he lived but a month in the White House.

John Tyler was 51, but he served out the term of Harrison.

James K. Polk was 49, but he served but four years.

Gen. Taylor, who had won his spurs in the Mexican War, was 64, but he served but 16 months.

Fillmore, who completed the Taylor term, was but 50 years of age, and Franklin Pierce but 48, retiring at the age of 52.

James Buchanan was 65 and retired at 68.

Abraham Lincoln was 52—but he died at the hand of an assassin after a service of 49 months.

Andrew Johnson, who served out the last term of Lincoln, was but 56 at his inauguration.

Gen. Grant was but 46 when elected in 1868 and but 54 when he retired at the end of eight years, being the youngest President but one that the Nation ever chose.

Gen. Hayes was 54 and served but one term.

Gen. Garfield was 49, but served only six and a half months, having been assassinated by Guitau on the 23 day of July after his inauguration on March 4, dying Sept. 19, following.

Gen. Arthur was 50 years old and simply filled the unexpired term of Mr. Garfield.

Grover Cleveland was 47 years of age when first elected, but 59 when at the close of his second term, one term having intervened.

William McKinley was 44 years old and served one full term and six months of another when he was assassinated at Buffalo.

Roosevelt was 42 years of age when he entered the Presidency to fill the second term of three and a half years of McKinley; but 45 years old when elected as President to succeed himself.

Judge Taft was 51 years of age and 55 when he retired.

Woodrow Wilson was 56 years of age, and if he lives to fill out his term of office he will be 60 when that shall have closed.

Thus will be observed that the average of the 28 Presidents is right around 58 years when they took office, but even this precedent could easily be changed.

Joseph Cannon, former Speaker of the House, is 78 years of age, yet he was as vigorous one year ago last March when he retired from Congress as he ever was.

Billy Sunday as a Poet.

One of the remarkable elements in Billy Sunday's intellectual make-up is his imagination—so bold and free and lawless. A sample of his best is his revised version of David McCauley's paragraph, entitled "The Palace of the Bible." It is an improvement on the original. The evangelist might have been a poet. It reads thus:

"Twenty-two years ago, with the Holy Spirit as my guide, I entered the wonderful temple called Christianity. I entered through the portico called Genesis, walked down thro' the Old Testament Art Gallery where the pictures of Noah, Abraham, Moses, Jacob, Joseph, Isaac and Daniel hung on the walls. I passed into the music-room of Psalms where the Spirit swept the keyboard of Nature and brought forth the dirge-like wail of the weeping prophet, Jeremiah, to the grand, impassioned strain of Isaiah, until it seemed that every red and pipe in God's great organ of Nature responded to the tuneful harp of David's sweet singer of Israel. I entered the chapel of Ecclesiastes, where the voice of the Preacher was heard, and into the conservatory of Sharon and the Lilly of the Valley's sweet-scented spices filled and perfumed my life. I entered the business office of Proverbs, then into the Observatory rooms of the Prophets, where I saw telescopes of various sizes, some pointing to far-off events, but all concentrated upon the bright and Morning Star, which was to rise above the moonlit hills of Judea for our salvation. I entered the audience room of the King of Kings and caught a vision of His glory from the standpoint of Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Peter, Paul, James and Jude penning their epistles.

"I stepped into the Throne room of Revelations, where all towered into glittering peaks, and I got a vision of the King sitting upon His throne in all His glory, and I cried:

"All hail the power of Jesus' name,
 Let angels prostrate fall;
 Bring forth the Royal Diadem
 And crown Him Lord of All!"

Long Time Since Old Liberty Bell Told.

(Philadelphia Public Ledger.)

Seventy-nine years ago the Liberty Bell was tolled for the last time. On that day a great crack appeared on the side of the bell while it was proclaiming the country's grief over the death of Chief Justice John Marshall, of the United States Supreme Court, whose body was being taken from this city to Virginia for burial.

In the circumstances many professed to see a fitting significance. Chief Justice Marshall was the last of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and the last of General Washington's associates. Fifty-nine years before the bell had rung out the tidings that the Declaration of Independence had been signed and adopted.

Once before the bell had been cracked and recast and later was again recast to mellow its tone. Finally it was hung in the Statehouse steeple, where for many years it heralded every important national event.

To-day the historic relic stands in its glass case in the Statehouse rotunda, where it is viewed daily by hundreds of visitors. Experts who have critically examined the bell have announced that the crack is enlarging, and to preserve it for future generations iron jacks have been placed to support it and to reduce the vibratory effects of heavy traffic on the city streets.

For regular action of the bowels; easy, natural movements, relief of constipation, try Doan's Regulents. 25c at all stores. jul

Here's An Honest Man, And In Congress, Too!

Believing that he had received something to which he was not entitled, Representative Witherspoon, of Mississippi, has turned back into the Treasury Department $82.20. That sum represented the amount of his salary for four days during which time he was away from Washington recently on private business. The fact that Mr. Witherspoon had returned the money leaked out despite his desire to keep the matter a secret.

Somewhere in the statute books there is a law which says a member of Congress shall not draw pay for the days he is absent and not attending to his public duties. The law, however, has generally been regarded as a dead letter, but not so with Mr. Witherspoon. He voluntarily surrendered his four days pay.

Famous After-Dinner Speech.

After-dinner speeches in our day are famed for wit, for nicety and brilliancy, and they are soon forgotten, or spoken of as "frills." But the words of Jesus at the Pharisee's dinner were given with grace and dignity beyond compare.

Not one syllable has ever been forgotten or ever can be, for His words belong to eternity. Jesus connected his theme with the dinner and the place where they had eaten it. That was wise, because the people who listened would be impressed through the law of association. He reminded them that as they came in they had selected the best places at the table, leaving the least desirable ones for those who should come in after. In doing this they thought a great deal too much of themselves—that they were conceited. And he told them that it was better form to take the poorer seats and be invited to take the better ones if the master of the feast should choose to ask them. It was a well-deserved rebuke, but no doubt it was courteously given, and was ended with the assurance that "whoever humbly himself shall be exalted." That lesson in courtesy is just as applicable to-day—nineteen hundred years after it was spoken—and it has been in force during all of the intervening years, and will never go out of date.
